

1/6th Fist Hands PDF

With my German Gebirgsjager Pioneer figure, I wanted it to hold the satchel bag it has properly. But with the hands from most of the major 1/6th manufacturers, even the gripping type of hands are just too wide apart to look right. It was then that I found on eBay the fist hands as shown below left sold by Black Ash 1/6th Kit, so I decided to buy two pairs of the hands to see if I could use them.

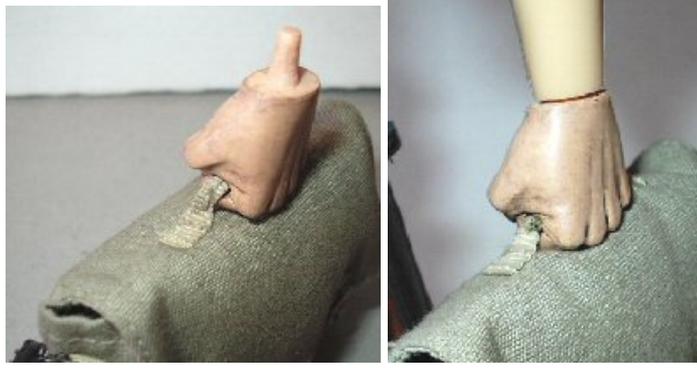

The two pictures above right, show how the fist hand compares to the DiD hand I was going to use. The only three problems that I found I had were firstly the peg for the arm had to have the wide end at the top sanded so that the peg is straight; a hole had to be very carefully drilled in the fist so it could hold the bag strap.

And both the fist and the other DiD hand had to be painted with some Flesh acrylic paint, so that they both match. Plus they both had to have a Brown pastel wash applied to them before use.

In the picture above left I have firstly cut the carry strap in half, so that each end can fit into the hole that I drilled. I then got some thread and sewed it to one end of the carry strap, pushed it through the drilled hole into the carry strap on the other side as shown in the picture above right. The next picture shows a bigger picture of the bag

The next picture shows the fist hand, once I have sewn both halves together and tied off the thread. The final picture above right shows the finished hand which has been plugged into the arm socket.
